Challenging times open the door for creativity and innovation – and last year certainly had its challenges. From federal decisions that compel us to expand and accelerate our state’s leadership on resource stewardship and social justice to firestorms that devastated northern and southern communities and forests, there was no shortage of immediate needs and long-term problems to tackle.

Californians are resilient, however, and local leaders are stepping forward into 2018 with even more passion and persistence.

The 27th Annual Yosemite Conference will equip local policymakers with practical strategies and accessible tools to implement innovative solutions with a focus on recovering from immediate economic, social and environmental challenges while increasing longer-term community resilience to prosper in the future.

At this ever-popular conference, local thought leaders will discover new partners, renewed inspiration and a united resolve to make lasting changes that will lead to stronger, healthier, more equitable communities.

Registration is NOW OPEN!
Please visit lgc.org/ypc to register.
JOIN US

As public servants, it is our professional responsibility and our social imperative to ensure that the decisions we make today protect and are grounded in the expressed needs of our most vulnerable residents. And in doing so, we help make the whole of our communities stronger and more resilient.

TOPICS WILL INCLUDE

- Recovering From Natural Disasters
- Important Affordable Housing Tools
- Improving Resilience In A Rapidly Changing Environment
- Emerging Trends And Promising Strategies

Yosemite Conference Program

The conference often sells out because attendees say the format is uniquely structured to address today’s most pressing problems and showcase fresh ideas with hands-on discussion of how to implement them. The conference program begins at 7:30 PM on Thursday, March 15, and continues through noon on Sunday, March 18.

We encourage you to bring your family, attend the opening session on Thursday evening, and use the session breaks to ski, hike, skate or just enjoy the breathtaking beauty of Yosemite in the winter. All conference sessions will be held at the Yosemite Lodge.

Thank you to our current sponsors!

The Yosemite Policymakers Conference is presented by the Local Government Commission.

Questions on the Conference Program
Carissa Gutierrez
Communications Manager
(916) 448-1198 x323 | cgutierrez@lgc.org

Questions on Lodging & Conference Logistics
Raj Sandhu
Event Assistant
916.448.1198 x335 | rsandhu@lgc.org