Background

The Mayors' Commission on Climate Change is a joint initiative of Sacramento Mayor Darrell Steinberg and West Sacramento Mayor Christopher Cabaldon. Recognizing the importance of preparing our communities for an already changing climate, the mayors have established the Commission to develop a common vision and set of strategies for both cities to achieve carbon zero, by 2045. The Commission will convene for five three-hour public meetings, structured around key sectors including the built environment, mobility, and community health and resiliency. The final result will be a Recommendations Report that highlights priority strategies to achieve Carbon Zero to inform Sacramento and West Sacramento's update to their Climate Action Plans.
